

PREVENTION

Working together to address complex problems using the Strategic Prevention Framework (SPF)

Prevention & the Continuum of Care

Prevention strategies utilize a public health approach to address problems universally or within a community. Selective prevention measures target subsets of the total population that are considered at risk for substance abuse by virtue of their membership in a particular segment of the population. Indicated prevention aims to identify individuals who are exhibiting early signs of substance abuse and other problem behaviors; and to involve them in special programs.
